Vibraphonist Terry Gibbs observed,
 "It's like a little Carnegie Hall.
 But this is so intimate.
 You play a slow song,
 and you can hear
 every note because everyone is listening."

Added the great George Shearing,
 "Of the many places I have played in recent years, I have not encountered many audiences who know how to listen like
 The Jazz Bakery patrons.
 It is a haven, and we are very belssed to have such a place to go."
